

COMMUNITY SUPPORTED AGRICULTURE is the concept by which the community participates in the operation of a farm by making a commitment to support that farm. The farm in turn provides the farm's members a choice selection of the farm's produce. Usually this involves a subscription purchased and paid in advance that gives the customer access to the products of the farm throughout the year while giving the farmer critical planting cash/seed money early in the year before returns on that season's effort start to come in.

BACON BUCKS

BACK FOR 2010

Moon In The Pond prints our own currency called BACON BUCKS. When you buy a BUNDLE OF BACON BUCKS you become a CSA member of Moon In The Pond Farm. (Various levels are available. See below.) We send you the BUCKS and you spend them for what ever we offer at the farm (or farmers' market.) What you want, when you want—that simple. There are no deadlines or expiration. When you re-subscribe next year you can even use any you have leftover.

Buying a BUNDLE OF BACON BUCKS allows you to put your money where you mouth is. You get terrific food and really support all the special work being done here at Moon In The Pond: historic livestock breed and heirloom vegetable conservation, ecological agriculture, farm apprenticeships, educational programs and more. But mostly you participate in the existence of a varied, beautiful farm, the way a farm was meant to be, right here in our community.

As a BACON BUCKS MEMBER

you receive our e-newsletter that includes what seasonal specialties are available and super specials: BACON BITS that are only available to members.

BACON BUCKS MEMBERS can visit the farm as often as they like, can volunteer to help out and can bring a group for a guided tour (for a nominal fee.) For more info on this, e-mail dom@mooninthepond.com, or call 413/229-3092.
